IUPUI

Founded in 1969 as a partnership by and between Indiana and Purdue Universities, Indiana University-Purdue University Indianapolis is an urban research institution with a growing reputation for innovation. We offer more than 200 degree programs — from associate to doctoral and graduate professional — and IUPUI is among the top 20 institutions nationally in the number of health-related degrees and the number of first professional degrees granted. More than 30,000 students study at IUPUI, coming from all 50 states and from countries around the globe. The campus is located just west of downtown Indianapolis, with easy access to city and state centers of government and business, restaurants, sports venues, art galleries, museums, the White River State Park, and the Indianapolis Zoo.

Indianapolis

The population of the Indianapolis Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) is over 1,700,000. Indianapolis is referred to as the "Crossroads of America" as four federal interstate highways converge here.

Downtown Indianapolis

Downtown Indianapolis is a vibrant and exciting place to live, work, and relax. Many of the city's more than 200 restaurants and taverns are within walking distance of the Institute hotel, the Marriott Indianapolis Downtown.

There are more than 200 retail stores in the downtown area, which includes Circle Centre Mall, Massachusetts Avenue, the Indianapolis City Market, Fountain Square, and other center city districts.

The White River State Park is Indiana's first urban state park, offering a variety of recreational facilities and natural green spaces. The 250-acre park and canal feature the world-class Indianapolis Zoo and White River Gardens, as well as significant art, history, recreational, and sports venues.

Indianapolis is home to 22 galleries and 10 performing arts theatres, including the Eiteljorg Museum of American Indians and Western Art; the Indiana State Museum, which houses Indiana's first IMAX theatre; and the Indianapolis Artsgarden.

Statement of Mission

The Assessment Institute in Indianapolis is the nation's oldest and largest event focused exclusively on outcomes assessment in higher education, and is designed to provide opportunities for:

- individuals and campus teams new to outcomes assessment to acquire fundamental knowledge about the field,

- individuals who have worked as leaders in outcomes assessment to share and extend their knowledge and skills,

- those interested in outcomes assessment at any level to establish networks that serve as sources of support and expertise beyond the dates of the Institute.

How to plan your Institute experience

The Institute is designed to introduce you to innovations in assessment that you can use in your own setting. Plenary events are presented by national assessment leaders. Concurrent sessions provide a more in-depth perspective on specific topics. A poster session will present details about instruments or techniques. In addition, make some time for networking and enjoying the city of Indianapolis!

What you'll learn at the Institute

You will learn about new techniques and proven approaches in a variety of outcomes assessment areas, including general education and major fields, as well as community engagement, ePortfolios, faculty development, high impact practices, global learning, graduate education, NILOA, and student affairs programs and services, each of which has its own track throughout the schedule. Several sessions are designed for beginners and others are for the more experienced practitioner.

Who should attend the Assessment Institute

Faculty, student affairs professionals, and administrators who have an interest in or responsibility for assessment should attend. Maximize the benefit of the Institute for your institution by bringing a campus team.
